ABSTRACT

The invented method uses vehicles as mascots named and decorated for different subject areas to generate enthusiasm for each area. The names of the vehicles are the Science, History, Reading and Math Bug, are bug-shaped cars decorated with various size spots with big bug-like antennae on the front. Each car has its own color combination consisting of two colors, one for the body of the car and one for the spots and antennae. Each subject area has an instructor that knowledgeable in that subject and wearing clothing colored to match the color of the vehicle. The instructors teach pre-planned lessons incorporating supporting information on a topic in a subject area. The instructors drive the vehicles to sites of instruction where students are located to perform a pre-planned lesson on a topic. The sites have or utilize concepts used in the lesson while instructors use teaching materials colored to match the color of the vehicle.

An audio/visual recording is made of the lesson for students who could not be at the site of instruction.
